Gin of the Month - Poetic License Old Tom Gin

“Not a feeling like it”, he thought. “It’s just me and my poetic license from here on in”. It was the end of the tired familiar and the beginning of something wholly weird and wholly wonderful.

This classic originating from the mid-1800s delivers a sweeter and more peppery taste in comparison with our Dry Gin. From the botanicals alone they nurture its sweet taste, while their oak casks continue to add flavour and colour. The inclusion of rose petals infuses a distinct character to the sweetness as well as a slight rose gold tinge.

The End of the Tired Familiar £12 £11

Sunderland, England

Poetic Licence Old Tom Gin, Fever-Tree ginger ale, garnished with fresh red apple
